

Freedom in His Presence, What Salvation Means to Me – by: Melissa Hudson

I give it all I've got and when there's nothing left,
I will push and give more.
With all that I give, I know I will fall.

I will still fall, but I give my all!

Trying with what isn't mine, never has been.

Still, I continue to push. It isn't mine, I am not mine.

I am God's creation, God's perfect art in His own image.

I am His living creation, built for Him, and given the honor of
His guidance, love and deliverance, of which I do not deserve.

My salvation through His innocence, crucified.

I am unique, you are nothing like me,
but we are joined by agape love, a family of His honor, for His glory.

Freedom to grow, bless others, be blessed, persevere,
and be a living example of His true love.

Speak His words without saying a word,

By walking in His grace as a living beacon of light to the lost.

Eternity... life is but a speck of sand,
But forever is found in the agape love of Christ in His presence is deliverance.
Comfort, love, peace, understanding ... no more pain.

You are not me; I am myself in Him, joined by the love from my Calvary family.

I am a proud representative of God's creation, here for all.

To demonstrate, all He can be through me.

Many years, I have practiced the art of landing on my feet, no matter what the challenge.

Through His salvation, I accept His life into my soul, as my Deliverer and Source of Life.

Salvation means my feet never left the ground, because I allow my Father to carry me through, I will not fall. I will not fall.

Salvation is the ultimate freedom.
